The Beginnings:

On October 9, 2008, UJ signed an agreement with the Aqaba Special Economic Zone Authority (ASEZA) to establish a branch for UJ in Aqaba. His Majesty King Abdullah II laid the foundation stone for the Branch on April 30, 2009.

The ASEZA will allocate 438 dunums of its land for the Aqaba Branch, which will start receiving students beginning with the 2009/2010 academic year. The first phase of the project will include the faculties of Languages, Management and Finance, Tourism and Hospitality, Information Technology and Systems, and Marine Sciences, as well as a model school. The infrastructure of the Marine Science Station will be developed to accommodate the Faculty of Marine Sciences.

A Faculty of Medicine, a hospital, sports halls and fields, a conference palace and an investment building are planned for the second phase.

Students in the Aqaba Branch will be subject to the same tuition fees as those in the Amman Branch.

Why UJ in Aqaba?

Aqaba, the only seaport of Jordan, is considered one of the most important cities in Jordan; not only because of its status as a transport and logistics hub and as a touristic attraction, but also because of its booming economy due to the economic zone. The establishment of the University of Jordan Aqaba Branch is necessitated by the urgent need for human capacity development in the Aqaba Governorate, and to enable Aqaba to play a vital role in the national development. UJ's Aqaba Branch aims to:

- provide the Aqaba Governorate and other remote areas with a qualified workforce through challenging educational programs in fields considered essential for them.
- promote the social and economic role of the Aqaba Governorate in the national development.
- provide the industrial and commercial sectors of the Aqaba Governorate with consultation and technical services.
- offer new specializations that are not available in any higher education institution in Jordan.
- enable students in the Aqaba Governorate and other remote areas to join UJ.

Project Phases:

Phase 1: The allocated area will be 270 dunums; 250 for the university campus and 20 for a model school.

Phase 2: The allocated area is 188 dunums and will be used for establishing the Faculty of Medicine, a hospital, sports halls and fields, a conference palace and an investment building.
